Very Smart TV

Sharp LC-60UA6800X

Full Port Selection

The UA6800X comes with four HDMI ports, a DVB-T2 (Digital Video Broadcast) tuner for digital TV and even USB ports for content playback.

Cast Your Content

Thanks to the built-in Chromecast, you can throw your content from your smartphone to the TV with a single tap of a button. Screensharing made easy.

Bigger than Five Feet

With a screen measuring 60 inches, the UA6800X delivers punchy images in a large format for the living room. The wide screen also gives it a presence that is commanding when set up properly for media playback. Thanks to Sharp's high luminance technology, everything is crystal clear and tack sharp.

High Quality in 4K

With more content coming out in the market in 4K quality, the right TV is needed for easier playback with no degradation. At the same time, the X4 Master Engine Pro II processor that is built into the TV allows SD and HD videos to be up-converted to 4K resolution with minimal noise while maintaining image quality. Plug in any of your lower resolution content and watch it in 4K goodness.

Powered by Android

The Sharp UA6800X is unique in the sense that it comes built-in with Android TV. Unlike other smart TVs out there, this is using the Google operating system so it is a tad more sophisticated. Browse through the Google Play Store to download apps, search the web using Google Search and then connect all of your media playback device to enhance your viewing experience.

• Game on your TV

With Android TV built-in, you can now install games straight from the Google Play Store and play it on screen. The remote control doubles as a game controller as well, making life that much better.

• Media Playback Support

Sharp included support for direct audio and video playback from connected USB devices. Load up your movies and music on a thumbdrive or hard drive, plug it in and play it on the big screen.

Great Sound with Eilex Prism Technology

Sharp's prowess in sound technology is alive and kicking in the UA6800X. Thanks to the Eilex Prism technology, the TV delivers great sound without the need of any external soundbar or audio system. It replicates 3D sound with only the two speakers in the TV, located behind the panel. Just add on a subwoofer for deeper bass and you have a complete home theater setup in a slim package.

Intelligent Remote

Sharp incorporates a smart remote for the Android TV experience into the single remote controller. This includes voice search as there is a built-in microphone in the remote control to access Google Search. There are also three buttons for quick app access – Youtube, Netflix and the built-in e-Manual for the TV. Plus, it has everything you need to control your TV right on your fingertips as well, including source selection, TV settings control and other important features. PC

VERDICT: "A smart TV that gives more than what it says on the tin." - Sharil
